Navy Speeds Relief To Scene Of Disaster

By DOUGLAS GRIESEMER

National Director, Public Information Service

ONCE AGAIN the Navy has demonstrated its readiness for humanitarian work.

Last week a colossal disaster occurred in the Dominican Republic. A West Indian hurricane of almost unprecedented intensity struck the City of Santo Domingo and swept inland, leaving a trail of complete destruction in its wake. In Santo Domingo City, the vast majority of people were rendered homeless, with property damage estimated at twenty to twenty-five millions of dollars. The city's water supply was broken. The latest estimates of casualties to personnel are 2,700 dead and 8,000 more or less seriously injured. A large proportion of wounds have become infected—at least 1,000 cases of gangrene having developed.

Due to temporary interruption of cable and radio services, complete knowledge of the extent of this tragedy did not reach the outside world immediately. Various agencies which might assist in relief work were nevertheless prompt to act. Governor Roosevelt of Porto Rico immediately dispatched such assistance as was available from that neighboring island. Colonel Richard M. Cutts, commanding the 1st Brigade of United States Marines in Haiti, quickly established communication with the stricken area and utilized the Marine Corps airplanes under his command to transport emergency aid. This action was particularly valuable because the wrecked city was for a time inaccessible by either sea or land.

American officers on duty under the Government of Haiti were sent to assist the Dominican Government, Comdr. Lucius W. Johnson, MC, taking charge of the enormous problem of emergency hospitalization and Lt. John Davis, ret., acting as Captain of the Port to reestablish sea communications. The work done by these officers has been the subject of the highest praise by President Trujillo, who had recently acceded to the duties of chief executive of the Dominican Republic, and who personally coordinated the relief work.

Upon receipt of reports from Governor Roosevelt and from Col. Cutts, the Red Cross headquarters in Washington.

Changes In Uniforms

THE policy of issuing special measurement uniforms to enlisted men of the Regular Army will be discontinued, except in the cases where men are of abnormal size or conformation.

The new uniform has many advantages over the special measurement in that they are being made of better material; the cost to the soldier will be no more, the price being on the same basis as the war-time uniform, and it was estimated that 95 per cent of the men will get much better fitting uniforms than by the special measurement method. In producing the uniform in quantities the Government will save approximately $1.45 per uniform, it was pointed out.

It has been estimated that from three to six months will be required for the manufacture and distribution to posts, camps and stations of complete sets of tariff sizes, one of each size being placed at each post, camp and station for trying-on purposes. In the meantime, the present policy of issuing an additional special measurement woolen uniform to each enlisted man of the Regular Army stationed in the continental limits of the United States, China and Alaska who is serving the second year of a three-year enlistment, or who may enter into the second year of such an enlistment will be continued.

High Honors To Service Men At National Rifle Matches

TWENTY-SEVEN riflemen of the Regular Army have qualified at Camp Perry for the President's Hundred, leading all other services in having the largest number of men qualify for this distinction. Sgt. R. L. Speers, 17 Inf., Ft. Crook, Nebr., attained first place with a score of 146 out of a possible 150. Lt. W. J. Whaling, USMC, won second place, with a score of 145. Third, fourth and fifth places were won with scores of 144.

The National Guard was runner-up for second place among the services, having the next largest number of 23 men qualify. The Marine Corps qualified 17; Coast Guard, 7; Navy, 4, and ROTC, 3. Only once in the history of the President's Match have service marksmen failed to win first place.

The winner of the match receives an autographed letter from the President; the Army Ordnance Association Trophy (a U. S. rifle, caliber .30 Sporter), and a gold medal; second, a silver medal, and third to tenth, bronze medals.

The members of the services have shot excellently this year and have won high honors and prizes in nearly every match fired.

Board Decides Basis Of Promotion Study

By M. H. McINTYRE

AFTER a month's intensive work by the sub-committees, the Interdepartmental Pay and Promotion Board met Sept. 9.

An agreement in principle was reached on the terms of the 1927 Army, Navy and Marine Corps Promotion board's report and this will serve as the basis for the findings of this board.

Recognizing the impossibility of attempting to devise any standard system, the recommendations will provide for each service to have an individual promotion plan, all synchronized to give a uniform rate of promotion.

While the problems confronting the Navy and Marine Corps are comparatively simple compared to the task the Army confronts, due to the "Hump" it will be necessary to make certain changes in the so-called Britten Bill which will be the basis for the Navy's system. Selection will probably be extended downward and other minor diversions worked out to make the Navy plan "dove-tail" with the others.

It has been found necessary also to revise the recommendations of last year's Pay Board, the personnel of which was virtually the same as that of the present board. This will be necessary to conform to the changes made in the different promotion plans.

Facing the most difficult situation of any of the various branches, the Army sub-committee is working out a system that will gradually eliminate the "hump." No revision of the promotion list is contemplated but it seems inevitable that some method of forcible elimination must be evolved.

The latter problem will probably be worked out as a gradual process and as a matter of fact there is a likelihood that the board will not attempt a complete and permanent solution of the entire question but a working plan that will, in time, bring about the desired results.

One suggestion that the Army may utilize is that, in recommending a change in percentages, which incidentally will not be confined to that branch, a set schedule of advancement, three year to first lieutenant, nine or ten to captain and 16 to 18 to major be agreed on. Specific plans for retirement of colonels and brigadier generals, when

Primary Flying Schools

A TOTAL of 246 students will begin the eight months' course of flying training Nov. 1, at the two Primary Flying Schools of the Army Air Corps at Brooks Field, San Antonio, Tex., and March Field, Riverside, Calif. In accordance with the policy of the Air Corps governing the selection of Flying Cadets, preference was given, first, to 25 enlisted men of the Regular Army; second, to 10 officers or enlisted men having at least six months' service with Air Corps National Guard units; third, to two college graduates of the Air Corps ROTC units; fourth, to 25 college graduates who are graduates of ROTC units of other branches; fifth, to 35 officers or enlisted men having six months service with National Guard units other than the Air Corps; sixth, to 62 graduates of recognized colleges and universities.

Students who have been ordered to Brooks Field, Tex., are:

American Press Views Career Of The Late Maj. Gen. Henry T. Allen

THE death of Maj. Gen. Henry T. Allen, USA, ret., has brought forth from the American Press high praise of his splendid Army career, especially that part devoted to the German Republic as commander of the Army of Occupation on the Rhine after the Armistice. Many editorials point out that had some other general been appointed to this command Germany's attitude toward America might not be as appreciative as it is today. Gen. Allen, the soldier who loved peace, instead of being a tyrant when he might have been, chose to be friendly, helpful and sympathetic. The Denver, Colo., Rocky Mountain News finds "there is something symbolic in that Gen. Allen should have died quietly and naturally while visiting his friends of the German Embassy outside of Washington."

"SOMETIME ago the most popular man in the Rhineland was a tall and genial general," the Denver, Colo. Rocky Mountain News recalls. "It was just after the Armistice when officers were not popular in Germany, and this particular general, besides belonging to a disliked profession, also happened to be in command of an alien army of occupation, one of the most hated jobs in the world. Nevertheless, he won the respect, even the love, of the defeated Germans. When his government decided to withdraw that alien army, the Germans asked that he and his troops remain."

"Always, especially in later years, he was drawn towards service and leadership with the forces of international friendship. He was a peace-maker between Allied and German authorities in the Rhineland. He organized the American committee for relief of German children. He helped to bring a wiser and just reparations settlement. Then he turned to work for the outlawry of war. He was one of the unofficial initiators of the project which later became the Kellogg anti-war pact. Gen. Allen was a great soldier who was more interested in peace than war."

"GEN. ALLEN'S great opportunity for the distinction that made him internationally known, and makes his death a cause of unfeigned regret in the German Republic, came after the war, when he took command of the American forces in the Rhineland," stated the Philadelphia, Pa., Evening Bulletin (Independent Republican). "He made history by his firm resistance to the separatist intrigues which enjoyed such a large number of French support. The German Republic, intact after the many efforts to split its unity in the post-Armistice period, is grateful to Henry T. Allen for more than his tact and kindness; it cherishes his memory as that of a friend and helper of the infant republic and its protection against foreign instigation of secession."

"IT is no reflection on the useful military career of Maj. Gen. Henry T. Allen to say that he is thought of primarily, and deserves chiefly to be remembered, for his works of peace," commented the Norfolk Virginia Pilot (Democratic). "But when he was placed in command of the American Army of Occupation along the Rhine, he revealed qualities which gave him genuine distinction."

"Gen. Allen met this delicate and difficult situation with justice and tact. More quickly than most militarists he laid aside the old war spirit and set about reconciling the combatants. His attitude towards the Germans, as they themselves testified, was helpful, friendly and sympathetic. A soldier without bitterness, a sympathetic and just administrator among a beaten people, and a thoughtful and statesmanlike citizen. Gen. Allen, after more than a third of a century in the Army, found his greatest achievements in repairing of war damage and the healing of war wounds."

Public Opinion

Louisiana

ENACTMENT of a service pay bill in accordance with the recommendations of the Inter-Departmental Pay Board, and not tied up with promotion legislation, is advocated by the Louisiana Department of the American Legion.

"It is the considered opinion of this American Legion Convention that the Promotion Bill should not be combined with the Pay Bill," a resolution passed by the Department Convention states. "The Pay Bill should constitute a separate piece of legislation to be enacted immediately to relieve the desperate financial condition of the majority of officers and men, and thus build up the morale of the services."

The text of the resolution follows: Whereas the pay of active and retired officers of the United States, Navy, and associated services is grotesquely inadequate (having remained unchanged since 1908) to meet present living conditions, being based on the 1908 purchasing power of money; and

Whereas a duly appointed Inter-Departmental Pay Board has made recommendations for increased pay for the entire personnel of the Army, Navy, Marine Corps, Coast Guard, Coast and Geodetic Survey, and Public Health Service; and

Whereas we believe that the above recommendations are merited and just, and that the enactment of the proposed measure by Congress will add to the efficiency of the National Defense Act;

Therefore Be It Resolved, That the Louisiana Department of the American Legion unanimously endorse the recommended increased pay for the personnel of the above named services, and the Louisiana Department of the American Legion recommends that any increase granted by Congress include the retired personnel as well as those on the active list;

Be It Further Resolved, That it is the considered opinion of this American Legion Convention that the Promotion Bill should not be combined with the Pay Bill; that the Pay Bill should constitute a separate piece of legislation to be enacted immediately to relieve the desperate financial condition of the majority of officers and the Legislative Committee of the American Legion in Washington, D. C., be instructed to further, with all its influence, the enactment of the above pay schedule; and

Be It Further Resolved, That a copy of this resolution be forwarded to the President of the United States, to the Chairman of the Joint Congressional Committee on Service Pay, Washington, D. C., as well as to the Senators and Congressmen from this State.

San Diego, Calif.

"WHY build ships if we are not keeping the officers necessary to man the ones we already have?" asks the San Diego Tribune in a recent editorial.

"Such a question is implied in the latest plea of the Bureau of Navigation for action upon the urgent matter of naval pay reform. 'There were 718 congressional appointments to the Naval Academy going begging last week,' the current issue of Time reports. 'Moreover,' this weekly adds, 'Officers' resignations in 1929 totaled 309.'

"Many causes contribute, of course, to both this lack of interest in appointments to the Naval Academy and to the startling number of officers who are leaving the service. But among them the weird pay schedule that was established in 1908 and hastily—and carelessly—revised in 1922 is much the most important."

"An Annapolis graduate, upon being commissioned an ensign, is paid about $175 a month. After 15 years, if he is supporting a family and 'rates' all possible allowances, he may possibly draw double that amount. If he is unmarried, and is somewhat less fortunate in the contest with the comptroller general that determines what allowances he merits, he gets very much less—even though he commands a $2,000,000 ship, or is responsible for the efficient operation of a plant worth several times that sum."

"In 20 years, while living costs have risen over 100 per cent, the pay of American officers has increased only 10 per cent. Under the existing system lieutenants sometimes receive higher salaries than the admirals under whom they serve; enlisted men

"THE fact that when the American troops withdrew they left no resentment behind them, is the best tribute to the skill and decency of this unusual military man," says the Birmingham Age-Herald (Independent Democratic). "King of the Rhineland" was the title which admirers gave Gen. Allen, whose death is renewing in the minds of thoughtful Americans a recognition of his unique service and qualities. Gen. Allen occupied a most difficult place, when during the occupation he was under the necessity of diplomatically maintaining harmony with the allies and at the same time holding the balance against extremists keen to bully and humiliate a defeated people."

"This general, unlike so many other military chiefs, was a believer in the various attempts which have recently been made to prepare for peace. He was for the League of Nations, for the outlawry of war, for the other movements which have sought to body forth the world's desires for a lasting freedom from international collision. Such a soldier represents the noblest traditions of his profession. He deserves to be remembered for that reason. He will be remembered in the vanquished country in which he might have been a tyrant, but preferred to be a helper and a friend."

"MAJ. GEN. HENRY T. ALLEN, whose sudden death on Aug. 30 terminated an unusual career, was a soldier who loved peace, a military man who used his training in war to help restore the ravages of conflict, and a fighter who could win the love of former enemies as well as battles," the Brooklyn Daily Eagle (Independent Republican) stated. "It was fitting that he should have been selected as commander of the American forces on the Rhine after the Armistice. Few soldiers were better prepared for such service and few could have performed the duties with such signal success. Head of one of the victorious allied detachments, he quickly won the love as well as the confidence of the Germans in the area he controlled."

"With the possible exception of Gen. Smuts of South Africa, no military figure in the war became a more active and ardent supporter of the League of Nations and advocate of organized peace than Gen. Allen. After his return in 1923, he continued his energetic efforts to help turn this country away from isolation and towards full cooperation with Europe in the advancement of peace. A brave soldier and kindly man Gen. Allen was first of all a friend of peace."

THE Richmond, Va., News-Leader (Democratic) says that "choosing Gen. Allen as the head of the army for the occupation of Germany was one of Newton Baker's wisest acts." The News-Leader stated further: "Loving travel and the company of friends, Gen. Henry T. Allen was personally known to more people than any other Army officers with the possible exception of Gen. Pershing. Frank, cordial, quick to adjust himself to every situation, he had a deserved popularity. Along with it he had a most exceptional record as a soldier of good will. Gen. Allen showed himself sympathetic, reasonable and fair. Not only so, but he took pains to understand the German point of view, with the result that he came home not less friendly with his former allies."

"The German people have thousands of bitter memories of the years of repression that followed the Armistice. Many of the best men in Germany were embittered. But they had in 1923, when Gen. Allen came home, and they have today, the highest admiration and the most genuine admiration for him. It was characteristic of the man that as soon as he was free to do so, he devoted all of his time to raising money with which to feed the hungry children of the Ruhr."

Adm. Hughes Relieved

ADM. WILLIAM V. PRATT, retiring Commander-in-Chief of the United States Fleet, who has been designated to succeed Adm. Charles F. Hughes as Chief of Naval Operations, will relieve Adm. Hughes next Thursday, Sept. 18, it was announced yesterday at the Navy Department.

Orders issued this week also provide for the relief of Rear Adm. William H. Standley as assistant to the Chief of Operations by Rear Adm. John Halligan, jr.

Adm. Hughes became Chief of Operations in 1927, and his transfer to the retired list next month, upon reaching the age of 64 years, cuts short the 4-year term which is provided for that post. Although his 64th birthday is on Oct. 14, under the new law Adm. Hughes is not retired until the first day of the next month, and he will be on active duty, though on leave, until Nov. 1. Adm. Hughes suffered a slight stroke some months ago, and has not been in very good health since his return to duty following his illness. Upon being relieved by Adm. Pratt, he will relinquish the house he has been occupying at the Naval Observatory and will make his home for some months, at least, in Chevy Chase, Md.

Two Officers Dismissed

WITH the confirmation of sentence by the President, two officers of the Navy, recommended for dismissal from the service by general court martial, have been dismissed.

Lt. Comdr. Frank R. Bealer, MC, USN, was found guilty of the charge of drunkenness by the court and the sentence of dismissal was approved by the Secretary of the Navy and confirmed by the President.

Lt. (jg) Vincent B. Burchett, USN, was found guilty by plea of a charge of embezzlement, and sentenced to dismissal and two years imprisonment at hard labor. The sentence was reduced to dismissal and one year's imprisonment by the convening authority and approved by the President.

officers, while men of the same rating and equal ability receive less than laborer's wages.

"Such statistics have been cited before Congress for years. Except to Naval officers and their dependents they are no more interesting than any other collection of figures. But they happen to have a very direct bearing upon the whole problem of maintaining an adequate Navy. While we pay our officers on a scale that was abandoned 20 years ago in other fields, we waste our time in appropriating money for ships."

San Francisco

JOINING practically all of the local Chambers of Commerce throughout the country, as well as the national body, the United States Chamber of Commerce, the Board of Directors of the San Francisco Chamber has unanimously adopted a resolution favoring "an increase in the compensation of the Army and Navy as will recompense for the increased cost of living since adoption of the old scale in 1908."

The text of the resolution follows: Whereas, the compensation of the personnel of the Army and Navy has remained fixed while wages in general have been advanced due to the increased cost of living; and

Whereas, Congress within the past eight years has recognized the demands of such increased cost of living by granting material increases in the compensation of the Foreign Service, the Civil Service, Post Office Inspectors, the Judiciary, Congress and the Cabinet; and

Whereas an adequate compensation is essential to attracting and retaining permanently in the Army and Navy a personnel capable of the highest type of leadership.

Therefore, be it resolved, that the San Francisco Chamber of Commerce favors such an increase in the compensation of the Army and Navy as will recompense for the increased cost of living since adoption of the old scale in 1908; and

Be it further resolved, that copies of this resolution be furnished the President of the United States receive more than their commanding the Secretaries of War and Navy, the Chairman of the Military and Naval Affairs Committees of the Senate and House, the Senators and

Switching Insurance

THE Chamber of Commerce of the United States, Insurance Department has issued a bulletin that should be of interest and importance to all those who are holders of insurance policies. The chamber in this bulletin warns against the practice of switching insurance policies from one company to another.

The bulletin summarizes its advice to policy holders as follows:

"1. That every life insurance policy has certain definite property values and that every responsible life insurance company serves the policy holder as a protective trustee, compounding its investments continually for the benefit of its policyholders.

"2. After the original premium on a life insurance policy in a well-managed life insurance company has been paid, the acquisition cost for securing this policy has also been paid.

"3. A change in policy results in acquisition costs being paid a second time. The twister or abstractor, who seeks to secure a change from the original policy to one in some other company, as a rule does so for the sole purpose of making a commission for himself."

Col. Thompson Dies

IT IS with deep regret that the services learn of the death of Col. Robert M. Thompson, on Friday, Sept. 5, at the home of his daughter, Mrs. S. H. P. Pell, in Ticonderoga, N. Y. He was in his 81st year.

Known to a host both in and out of the service, he was loved by all who came to know him. In the halls of the Naval Academy it is inscribed that he was "The best friend the Navy ever had."

Col. Thompson entered Annapolis at the age of 15 and was graduated in the class of 1868, being tenth in a class of 80. He served three years in the line and then resigned to enter civil life. Thereafter, however, the sea was in his blood and the Navy always remained his first love.

Engaging in the practice of law, the colonel later turned to the field of finance, but he was best known as a leader in the cause of sound national defense and in the field of amateur sports. He was twice president of the American Olympic Association—in 1912 and 1924—and on several occasions during the early years of the revived Olympics, made possible the participation of American teams by his financial help. He organized the Naval Academy Alumni Association, was a founder of the Navy League of the United States, a leader in the Loyal Legion, and he was active in other organizations which promote the national defense and the health of youth through sports.

It is a singular tribute to his kindly and effective leadership that, despite the poor health which limited his activities in recent years, he was president or president emeritus of a score of such bodies at the time of his death.

He was the donor of many athletic trophies, among them the "Thompson Cup" for football between West Point and Annapolis, the "Thompson Trophy," a bronze statue competed for by the fencing teams of America and England, and a cup for the midshipman who has done most for athletics during the year. For years he gave the gold football watch chains to members of the Naval Academy team.

The colonel was a faithful attendant at June weeks and at the annual football clashes between the Army and Navy. He was the proud owner of a battered top hat, and it is said that when he wore it to a game the Navy never lost.

The monumental bronze doors of the Naval Academy chapel were given by him as a memorial to his classmates at Annapolis.

Col. Thompson's interest in the Navy and naval policy were far from academic. Throughout his long life he was a close student of political and naval developments. He was an intimate of most of the American high command for the better part of the past half century and counted Prince Louis Mountbatten, Adm. Lord Beresford and many other officers of the British Navy as his close friends.

After the Spanish War, when President Roosevelt moved to build up the American Navy to a strength commensurate with the new position of the nation as a world power, Col. Thompson associated himself with the founders of the Navy League and throughout its existence was identified with its work. Upon the death of Gen. Horace Porter he assumed the presidency of that organization, which he held until the end of the World War.

He was the recipient of decorations from the governments of France, Japan and Sweden.

Col. Thompson was formerly colonel and aide-de-camp on the staff of the governor of New Jersey.

Memorial services in honor of Col. Thompson will be held in the Chapel of the Naval Academy, Sunday, Sept. 28, under the auspices of the Naval Academy Alumni Association.

Gen. Butler's "Dry" Cocktail

IS THERE anyone in the Services who can rival Maj. Gen. Smedley D. Butler, Commandant of the Marine Corps Base at Quantico, Va., as a drink mixer? This distinguished officer has jumped into print as the creator of a punch, guaranteed to brace and yet lie snugly within the stomach and the limits of the Volstead Act and Constitutional Amendment. Read his recipe, contained in a book compiled by Roxana Doran, and have a watering mouth:

"Make tea as a base, using three (3) tablespoons of tea to each quart of water.

"Add the following to each quart of tea (stir well): One cup of sugar; 4 ounces lemon juice (squeezed); 2 ounces lime juice, and 2 ounces 'Five Fruits' juice.

"Add ice and serve cold. Other fruits, such as pineapple or strawberries, may be added to suit the taste."

It is the belief of a correspondent of the Army and Navy Journal that there are better cocktail and punch artists in the Services than Gen. Butler. He says with becoming modesty, that he can make a drink which will beat anything the Marine Officer can produce, and he guarantees like results from the pet productions of other friends. It is assumed his concoction, like that evoked by the genius of Gen. Butler, would be swallowed, without objection, by prohibition enforcement officers. Our correspondent suggests that the drink mixing ability of the Army, the Navy and the Marine Corps be tested. "It is outrageous," he argues, "to permit Gen. Butler to carry off the laurels." He wants the Army and Navy Journal to offer a prize for the best cocktail or punch recipe, anything from a punch-bowl or a cocktail shaker to a cocktail glass of pre-Volstead days.

The editor, who is writing this ebullition without other stimulation than the thought, might be willing to offer the price of a pre-prohibition cocktail, 15 cents, with a slight increase due to the higher cost of living. If our readers think well of the suggestion and the value of the prize, let us have your recipes!

Military Show At Snelling

Ft. Snelling, Minn., (Special)—With the entire garrison taking part, the Third Annual Northwest Military Show will be held here Sept. 19, 20 and 21, according to an announcement by Col. David L. Stone, post commandant. Col. Stone said that plans have been perfected for a three-day show on an even larger scale than last year so as to take care of 10,000 people each of the three days.

The feature of this year's show will be the re-enactment by Regular Army troops assisted by units of the Minnesota National Guard, of the Battle of LeFranquets Ferme, near the town of LeCharmel, which was fought by the Regular Army Division in France 12 years ago this month. Infantry, with all auxiliary arms, artillery, tanks, machine guns, airplanes and Army "blimps" will all be used to reproduce a typical engagement of American troops in the World War.

In addition to the re-enactment of the World War battle, this year's Military Show will feature a Tank Circus in which these ungainly engines of war will perform spectacular acrobatic stunts and will be blown up by contact mines with their crews inside. There will be an exhibition of Infantry drill by a platoon of 50 specially selected doughboys and of Artillery driving by Battery "F," 18th Field Artillery (of the 3rd Division), while Machine Gunners will oppose a fleet of fighting airplanes in a demonstration of anti-aircraft warfare.

Hundreds of special exhibits are being shipped to Ft. Snelling by the War Department in order that the people of the Northwest may have an opportunity to become familiar with the work of every branch of the Army, including the Air Service, the Chemical Warfare Service, Signal Corps, Engineer Corps, Ordnance, Quartermaster and Medical Departments and all combat branches.

Army Regulations Changes

CHANGES have been announced in Army Regulations, etc., as follows:

Medical Department — Veterinary Service, Remount Purchasing Boards, AR 40-2050. This supersedes AR 40-2050, Mar. 2, 1922, including C 2, June 29, 1929.

Finance Circular No. E-3—General Audit Procedure. E-5, Audit of Accounts of Sales Commissaries and Sales Stores.

Circular No. 41—Special Measurement woolen uniform. Added to paragraph 5b(2) AR 615-40, Oct. 1, 1928. Age limit for initial appointments in the Officers' Reserve Corps. Subparagraph "d" added to paragraph 4, AR, 140-5.

Circular No. 42—Accountability and responsibility for public property. Finance Department, changed in AR 35-2440.

ROTC Association

ANNOUNCEMENT is made by Lt. Col. Orvel Johnson, executive secretary of the ROTC Association, of three appointments as state representatives, by Maj. Gen. Amos A. Fries, president of the association. The appointees are designated State ROTC directors and have accepted their appointments. Col. Fred Cardway, 342 Madison Avenue, New York, will have full charge of the association's interest in that state, while Col. Edward Westworth, of Armour & Co., Chicago, will represent the organization in Illinois.

Col. Charles H. Rutherford of Phoenix, Ariz., will serve as director in that State. Gen. Fries says the association's activities are to be decentralized as far as the nature of the work will permit, leaving the plan of organization and selection of necessary personnel in each state to the local director. The three new directors are each outstanding citizens in their respective states who have long been identified with patriotic, civic and military affairs.

The directors will work directly with school authorities and Army officers on duty in the educational institutions in which ROTC units are located, with groups of leading citizens, to prevent the work of pacifists, communists, radicals and other classes of internationalists now so active in the efforts to destroy military training in the schools, from defeating the only military policy the Nation has ever had, and for which our people waited for more than 150 years.

As the principal purpose of the National Defense Act is to provide a skeleton citizens' army in time of peace that may be expanded to meet the needs of the country in any major emergency, and as the Reserve Officers' Training Corps is the principal source of supply of Reserve Officers for such an army, it is essential that every loyal, freedom-loving citizen should give his support to the proper development and maintenance of the ROTC. Gen. Fries returned Wednesday evening from Harrisonburg, Va., where he addressed the Department Convention of the American Legion on behalf of the Association.

COAST DEFENSE DECISION AWAITS NEW HIGH COMMAND CHANGES

FAILURE of any further developments to materialize in the aerial Coast Defense controversy appears to confirm the belief that President Hoover has decided to take no further steps until this Fall after the new Chief of Naval Operations and the new Chief of Staff "take-over."

The high command changes will in effect create a new Joint Army and Navy Board as it is composed of the Chief of Staff and Deputy Chief of Staff, Chief of Operations and Assistant Chief and one or two other officers.

In spite of the lull, however, there are many in both services who appreciate fully the importance of the issue raised and the potentialities in the controversy. From a military standpoint the Joint Board settled the question some time ago but the issue, of major importance in its bearing on national defense, keeps bobbing up and sooner or later must be disposed of.

The Air Corps seems to have the full backing of the War Department, if not the Army as a whole and for this reason it appears that the time has come for a show-down.

Whether the President, who has referred the economic side, the duplication of material, equipment, etc., to the Efficiency Board, will ask the new Joint Board to again attempt to find a solution to the problem that will satisfy all hands or will take other steps is unknown. There is a report that he has under advisement the convening of a special board, of somewhat the same importance as the Morrow board, to investigate the merits of the controversy and submit recommendations for a final disposition of it. In many quarters this would be welcomed, but the difficulty of finding personnel for such a board, which would have to pass on questions of strictly military nature, would seem to preclude this procedure.

GEN. EMBICK COMMANDS 3RD COAST ARTILLERY DISTRICT

BRIG. GEN. STANLEY D. EMBICK, who previously had been relieved of his assignment as assistant commandant and appointed commandant of the Coast Artillery School at Ft. Monroe, Va., was this week also assigned to command of the 3rd Coast Artillery District. This dual command—school and district—was also exercised by Gen. Embick's successor, Maj. Gen. Henry D. Todd, jr., who retired last month.

COLS. HARTMANN AND MORROW TO RETIRE SEPT. 30.

TWO ARMY COLONELS will pass to the retired list the last of this month, having attained the age of 64. They are Col. William M. Morrow, Inf., who has been on duty at the Discharge and Replacement Depot, Brooklyn, and Col. Edward T. Hartmann, Inf., of the San Francisco General Depot, Ft. Mason.

While actually Col. Hartmann reaches the statutory age on Sept. 9, and Col. Morrow on Sept. 6, both retirements become effective Sept. 30 under the act approved April 23, 1930, which makes all retirements, and subsequent promotions, effective at the end of the month.

PENDING SELECTION OF DEPUTY CHIEF OF STAFF CAUSES GOSSIP

GOSSIP is alive in Washington as to who Gen. Douglas MacArthur will select as Deputy Chief of Staff. Officials of the War Department recognize this is more or less a matter of personal selection on the part of the new Chief of Staff, and are not disposed to make any suggestions to him. It is assumed that the officer named will be persona grata to the President and the Secretary of War, and that Gen. MacArthur, before he announces the appointment, will ascertain the views of his superiors.

The talk at the War Department is that Gen. MacArthur will offer the post to one of five major generals—Johnson Hagood, Commander, 7th Corps Area; William D. Connor, President of the Army War College; Paul B. Malone, Frank R. McCoy, Commander of the 4th Corps Area, or George V. H. Moseley, on duty in the office of the Assistant Secretary of War. Gen. Hagood has been on duty at Omaha since June, 1929; Gen. Connor at the War College since Jan., 1928; Malone at Chicago since Aug., 1928; Gen. McCoy at Atlanta, Ga., since the Spring of 1929, and Gen. Moseley in the War Department since Sept., 1929.

"CONDUCT UNBECOMING" CONVICTION SHOULD MEAN DISMISSAL

CONVICTION of the charge of "Conduct unbecoming an officer and a gentleman" should carry a sentence of dismissal from the naval service, the Judge Advocate General of the Navy stated recently in reviewing a court-martial sentence.

The Judge Advocate General calls attention to the fact that in the Army by statute a sentence of dismissal is mandatory, upon conviction of the charge of "conduct unbecoming an officer and a gentleman."

"While there is no similar statutory enactment with reference to the Navy, the foregoing is sufficient evidence of how seriously this particular offense has been regarded by Congress," the JAG stated. "A court-martial composed of naval officers should not refuse to accept for the service of which they are members the standard fixed by law to which officers of the Army must conform in order to retain their commissions."

FIFTY ARMY OFFICERS PROMOTED

SEVEN lieutenant colonels were promoted to colonel on Sept. 1 and 2, due to promotions and retirements in August. Those promoted are Col. Tilman Campbell, FD; Thomas L. Sherburne, Cav.; James L. Long, CAC; Ralph M. Mitchell, CAC; Frederick L. Dengler, GSC; Richard H. Williams, CAC, and Lewis S. Ryan, FA. There were also 7 majors promoted to lieutenant colonel on the same dates; 13 captains to major since Aug. 31; 11 first lieutenants to captain on Sept. 2, and 12 second lieutenants to first lieutenant on Sept. 1 and 2.

ADM. MARSHALL QUALIFIES FOR TRANSPORT LICENSES

REAR ADM. ALBERT W. MARSHALL, USN, has qualified for a transport license for both landplanes and seaplanes, and becomes the only officer of flag rank in the Navy to hold the commercial licenses. Adm. Marshall qualified as a naval aviator in 1926, when he held the rank of captain, and was the first officer of that rank to qualify as a naval pilot. Since May, 1929, Adm. Marshall has been commandant of the naval air station at Pensacola, and has had command of the Aircraft Squadrons of both the Battle and Scouting Fleets. He has also commanded the aircraft carrier USS Lexington.

CLASSIFICATION BOARD MEETING POSTPONED

THE MEETING of the board to make a classification of officers which originally was scheduled for Monday, Sept. 8, has been postponed until later this month because of difficulties which prevented some of the members coming to Washington on the earlier date.

Orders issued Sept. 5 detailed Brig. Gen. Lucius R. Holbrook, now in command of the 13th FA Brigade, Ft. Bragg, N. C., as a member of the board. Gen. Holbrook will fill the vacancy on the board created by the relief therefrom of Maj. Gen. Briant H. Wells, who will sail Oct. 18 to command the Hawaiian Division. Gen. Holbrook will take command of the First Division, Ft. Hamilton, N. Y., upon the departure of Gen. Wells.

Previously, Brig. Gen. Stanley D. Embick had been appointed to the classification board, vice Brig. Gen. Meriwether L. Walker.

WARNING ISSUED AGAINST FUNDS FOR PAY LOBBY

THE Bureau of Navigation, Navy Department, has issued the following "Special Notice" to the service:

"It is reported that one or more persons, not known to the service, propose to collect from officers money to be used in influencing pay legislation.

"Commanding officers are requested to advise all hands not to contribute funds for any such purpose."

No official warning has been issued by the Army, but officials of the War Department say they have no knowledge of any group having authorized the maintenance of a pay lobby. As a matter of fact both departments feel that the movement for an increase in pay will be hampered rather than benefited by the service of a legislative agent.

The matter came to the attention of the officers when a man purporting to represent all of the six services concerned in the proposed pay legislation attempted to rent an office in a Washington office building. The real estate agent became suspicious at the high-sounding title given by the applicant to his organization and, after an investigation, refused to rent the quarters.

This untimely cropping up of the lobby question is greatly deplored among those familiar with the situation here. Because of the unusual expression of public demand for a pay increase and the spontaneity with civilian organizations, business and labor alike, have demanded that proper compensation be granted to the armed services; it is unfortunate indeed that the subject of lobbying (so much under fire and in disrepute recently) should be injected to mar the picture. Fortunately in this case there is apparently no connection between the so-called lobbyist and any service man, it being presumed that he started out on his own initiative.

FIFTEEN NAVAL OFFICERS TO BE PROMOTED ON OCT. 1

FIFTEEN officers of the Navy will be promoted to the next higher rank on Oct. 1, unless they go up earlier because of unexpected separations from the service. Capt. William T. Tarrant, Comdr. Charles M. Austin, Lt. Comdr. Edgar M. Williams, Lt. Jacob H. Jacobson and Lt. (jg) James A. McBride, become due for promotion upon the retirement of Rear Adm. Julian L. Latimer, who passes from active service at his own request after 40 years' service. Comdr. Ferdinand L. Reichmuth, Lt. Comdr. Howard A. Flanagan, Lt. Ion Purcell and Lt. (jg) Elbert Fryberger will be promoted on the first of the month, upon the retirement on his own request after 30 years' service of Capt. Christopher R. P. Rodgers. Lt. Comdr. Mark A. Mitscher, Lt. Gordon Rowe and Lt. (jg) John E. Whitehead go up when Comdr. Samuel Henderson retires for physical disability. Lt. William H. Hartt, jr., and Lt. (jg) Gordon J. Crosby become due for promotion upon the retirement of Lt. Comdr. Harold O. Hunter on Oct. 1 for physical disability, and Lt. (jg) Fred L. Dennison goes up upon the retirement of Lt. Fred A. Smith for physical disability.

GEN. FUQUA VISITS CAMP PERRY

MAJ. GEN. STEPHEN O. FUQUA, the chief of Infantry, left Washington, Wednesday, Sept. 10, for Camp Perry, Ohio, to attend a meeting of the National Board for the Promotion of Rifle Practice held Sept. 11. While at Camp Perry, Gen. Fuqua witnessed the firing of the National Rifle Team Match.

The Infantry is the present holder of the National Rifle Team Match Trophy which is competed for annually by teams representing the various arms of the service, the Navy, Marine Corps, Coast Guard, and National Guard and civilian organizations.

Gen. Fuqua will return to Washington tomorrow, Sept. 14.

Licensing of Automobiles

THE Navy Department has approved the action taken by a force commander in his attempt to increase the safety of "navigation on shore" of automobiles by enlisted personnel under his command. The regulation which this commander has issued in this matter, has been sent to all ships and stations for their information by the Chief of the Bureau of Navigation, Rear Adm. Frank B. Upham, USN.

Those regulations were issued in the interest of the enlisted personnel. The men had been involved in a number of accidents, with occasional fatalities and injuries which necessitated hospitalization and sick leave. The question of financial responsibility of owners of automobiles, also was acted on, as it was found that ill-advised purchases of automobiles had been made, resulting in indebtedness or insufficient financial support of families.

The force commander, in his published regulations, said:

"The force commander entirely approves automobile ownership and operation by those financially able to purchase safe vehicles, maintain them in that condition, and who are so constituted as not to menace themselves or others on the roads. Those not meeting such requirements necessitate regulation.

"The enlisted men are operating motor vehicles in considerable numbers. Accidents in which they are involved are frequent. The consequences are occasional fatalities, frequent hospitalization and the time lost in sick days. There are complaints from civil sources of menace and of damage from cars operated by Naval personnel. Moreover, there are being too many instances of indebtedness, or of insufficient financial support of families, due directly or indirectly to ill-advised purchase of automobiles.

"It is to be noted that Naval personnel enjoy certain advantages; death or injuries due to accidents on authorized leave or liberty is adjudged "line of duty." Subsequent medical treatment is free and pay goes on irrespective of time lost from duty. Federal pay cannot be attached by court action to cover damage to property or person, or in reimbursement for debt; this constitutes decided privilege. It is essential that command so function that the advantages of the above situation be not abused to the detriment of government interests, or those of civilians.

"The following regulations applying to automobiles of enlisted men, will be observed:

"Cars will not be allowed to enter or leave the limits of ships, naval stations, and bases, without passes and insignia issued by the commanding officers, the commandants, or base commanders.

"Such passes and insignia will be issued only after compliance with the following:

"1. The applicant to obtain from his commanding officer a certification that applicant is financially able to own an automobile and keep it in proper mechanical condition, and that suitable funding arrangement has been made.

"2. The applicant to be certified by his commanding officer, as of such character, reliability and good sense as to promise safety in driving, if licensed by State authority.

"3. The automobile to be certified,

Accept Only 12 Per Cent

APPLICANTS for enlistment in the Navy at all recruiting stations in the United States during July reached a total of 12,683, of which but 1,630 were accepted, the Bureau of Navigation announced this week, following an analysis of recruiting statistics for that month.

The percentage of applicants accepted by the Navy during July, according to the figures given above, was 12.8 per cent. The high standards established for entrance into the Navy is given as the reason for the low percentage of acceptances.

Officers Receive Gift

WARDROOM officers of the USS California have been presented with a beautifully bound set of the works of Peter B. Kyne, given them by the famous author.

The set, now the most prized possession of the wardroom library, is said to be one of the four sets in existence. President Hoover has one, the Olympic Club of San Francisco another, and the famous Bohemian Club, the fourth.

"Commanding officers may issue such additional regulations concerning parking, speed limits, traffic governance, working on cars, etc., as local conditions make advisable. Base commanders are authorized to suspend or revoke permits for violations of these regulations, or for other cause."

The letter issued by the Bureau of Navigation is in line with the Navy Department's policy in "safety engineering." For years, the Department has carried out an educational program on all ships and stations. Safety rules have been issued for all personnel and employees; safety devices have been adopted that are being used by the commercial world, and bulletins, pamphlets, charts and letters are being constantly issued to the Naval Service in the interest of safety.

Adm. Halligan Detached

REAR ADM. JOHN HALLIGAN, JR., in command of the Aircraft Squadrons, Scouting Fleet, received orders Sept. 8, detaching him from that command and ordering him to duty as Assistant to the Chief of Naval Operations.

Adm. Halligan has been in command of the Aircraft Squadrons since April, 1929. He will succeed Rear Adm. William H. Standley, USN, about Sept. 25. Adm. Standley has been ordered to command the Destroyer Squadrons, Battle Fleet.

Adm. Halligan was born in South Boston, Mass., May 4, 1874, and was appointed a naval cadet from Massachusetts in 1894. He stood at the head of his class which graduated in 1898. During the Spanish-American War, he was attached to the USS Brooklyn and was on board that vessel during the Battle of Santiago, Cuba, July 3, 1898. For his service he was awarded the Special Meritorious Medal.

During the World War, he served as Aide on Staff of the Commander, Patrol Force, Atlantic Fleet and later as Chief of Staff of the Commander of the United States Naval Force in France, and for this service he was awarded the Distinguished Service Medal.

In Nov., 1920, he was assigned to duty in charge of the Naval Engineering Experimental Station, Annapolis, Md., where he served until May, 1923.

Adm. Halligan commanded the battleship USS Ohio from May, 1919, to Nov., 1920, and during that period was in charge of the battleship USS Iowa during the radio control experiments with the Iowa and Ohio. He commanded the light cruiser USS Detroit from July, 1923, to June, 1925, when he was appointed Chief of the Bureau of Engineering, Navy Department.

In July, 1928, he was under instruction at the Pensacola Naval Air Station and qualified as naval aviation observer. He commanded the aircraft carrier USS Saratoga from Sept., 1928, to April, 1929, when he was appointed Commander, Aircraft Squadrons, Scouting Fleet.

On July 23 Kearney, who was attached to the Yard Service Derrick No. 1, Naval Air Station, Hampton Roads, Va., was suddenly seized by cramps while swimming between the derrick and an airplane runway, a distance of about 50 yards. The three enlisted men promptly jumped overboard and brought Kearney to the runway, and have been commended by the Bureau for their prompt action in effecting this rescue.

The letter of commendation was awarded upon the recommendation of the Bureau of Engineering and states that the Navy Department "desires to commend you for your interest and ingenuity in devising such a simple method for the proper adjustment of machinery."

Food Ships and War

(The following article, the second and concluding portion of which will be published next week, was written by an officer who has made a study of food ships and "contraband.")

IN HIS 1929 Armistice Day address, President Hoover is reported to have said: "Food ships should be as immune from capture at sea as hospital ships."

This is a very significant statement.

It cannot be lightly cast aside by saying that of course the man who fed war bread to starving Belgians would be interested in protecting civilian populations from unnecessary hardships as the result of wartime activities. It comes from the Chief Executive of one of the greatest naval powers the world has ever known. It comes from one who is Commander-in-chief of the Army and Navy of an influential nation. It epitomizes the problem of peace.

Raises Many Queries

It raises the entire question as to how a war should be fought, as to what a navy is for, and consequently as to how a navy should be constituted.

Vattel, in 1758, declared that wars are fought by regular forces and that peoples, peasants and merchants are not concerned therein. It was in obedience to this philosophy that Prussia and the United States in 1785 concluded a treaty which stipulated among other things that "all merchants and trading vessels employed in exchanging the products of different places, and thereby rendering the necessities, conveniences and comforts of human life more easy to be obtained, and more general, shall be allowed to pass free and unmolested." (7 Moore's Digest, 461).

But that was a hundred and forty years ago. The treaty is not only now ineffective, it is unusual. It has not conformed to practice or agreement since that time. The attempted freedom of the seas has never been effectively maintained. Nations with strong navies going to war have not followed this philosophy. During the great series of Continental Wars growing out of the French Revolution, Napoleon's Berlin and Milan decrees and British Orders in Council, controlled and throttled commerce. Distinctive trading nations not embroiled have ever attempted to maintain the theory that neutral ships should be free to come and go. The countries of the Baltic formed the "Armed Neutrality of the North" but were unable to maintain their position after Nelson had mastered the sea lanes by the battle of Copenhagen.

Recalls Civil War

When the Federal Government of the United States had thrown the ring of the blockade around the Confederate States, the frigates of the North did their best to throttle Southern trade, to prevent the ingress of munitions and the egress even of raw cotton, "the very lifeblood of the Confederacy." Britain needed cotton, wanted it badly for her Lancashire mills, but cotton did not go. (Young v. U. S., 97 U. S. 39).

And so it has ever been. The neutral trading nation has attempted to keep the sea lanes open. The belligerent naval power has attempted to keep the sea lanes closed.

When the World War opened and German military power forced Britain to extremes, Winston Churchill announced that the blockade and its "economic pressure" would bring Germany to defeat "as surely as the Winter will strike the leaves from the trees." The allies formed "an iron ring" around Germany and frankly attempted to starve her into a surrender. The situation was reversed from what it had been in 1861. Now Britain was the blockader and America was the neutral trader. But the result was the same. The forces of argument, even when presented by such master pleaders as Woodrow Wilson and Robert Lansing, was of no avail against the imperative attitude of the belligerent keen to accomplish its war aims. "The economic pressure" continued and—to quote Lloyd George—"those who have read the remarkable war novels recently published in Germany will learn how much food shortage had to do with weakening the fighting qualities of the armies of the Central Powers, and especially with breaking down the morale of the nations behind the lines."

Declaration of Paris

The Declaration of Paris of 1856 had freed from capture:

- (a) Neutral ships.
- (b) Neutral goods on enemy ships.
- (c) Enemy goods on neutral ships.

Antiaircraft Show

ALL items of armament and antiaircraft fire-control devices were in operation Sept. 11 at Aberdeen Proving Ground, Md., at a special antiaircraft firing and demonstration of antiaircraft armament for the benefit of Army and Navy officers. The members of the Naval Academy Post Graduate School were special guests.

The latest antiaircraft devices that might be used in time of emergency to protect centers of population from aerial attacks are being tested by Army officers. The Air Corps and Ordnance Department are cooperating in these tests which began Aug. 15, and will continue for about three months.

On still might capture enemy ships or any goods (neutral or enemy) which had been declared contraband.

Contraband was essentially intended to cover war materials only, that is, munitions of war. It had been maintained that contraband goods—even on neutral ships—might be seized even when destined for a neutral port, when it appeared likely they were travelling "in disguise" or circuitously to a belligerent through a neutral port. (The Polly, 2 Robinson, 361.) This was the doctrine of continuous voyage, originated by Sir W. Scott, during the Seven Years War. It formed part of the protests made by the United States to Great Britain during the American Civil War when goods were being shipped from England to Bermuda for smuggling thence into the Southern States. It was part of the answer made by Britain to the United States in the World War—when the shoe was on the other foot—when our trade to Holland and the Scandinavian countries was being intercepted.

"Contraband"

A still further extension of the conception of the meaning of the word "contraband" took place during the World War. The so-called "Declaration of London," drawn up in 1909, attempted to reiterate most of the provisions of the Declaration of Paris, to affirm the doctrine of continuous voyage, and to fix finally what should be contraband. Three classes of goods were defined in this document: (a) Absolute Contraband, e. g., guns, munitions, war ships, etc. (b) Conditional Contraband, e. g., foodstuffs, railway materials, military clothing, boats, fuel, and other things susceptible of war use. (c) Non-contraband, e. g., cotton, yarn, raw hides, silk, hemp, metal ores, etc.

Then came the World War, with Germany inside an iron ring of nations attempting to conquer her by economic pressure as well as by force of arms. Then came the British navy to enforce the blockade. Then came the list of almost completely the distinction between British Orders in Council, obliterating between contraband and conditional contraband, and even invading the "free list" of articles supposedly non-contraband. Of course, the Declaration of London had never been sufficiently ratified to become effective. But the real justification for the British action, as put forth, was as follows:

German Control

It was noted that Germany had in effect requisitioned every article and every person within the empire. Even Labor was controlled. Food was being rationed, even to civilians. Industry was under the complete control of the government. Again to quote Lloyd George's recent utterance: "In August, 1914, the Governments who made war received the enthusiastic and almost unanimous support of their people. The people themselves must be held responsible for any act of aggression perpetrated by their armies and navies." It was therefore quite in accordance with prevailing views for England to declare a general blockade of the Central Powers and to attempt to starve all of Germany into submission. It probably was not quite in accord with the wishes of Mr. Hoover attempting to feed starving Belgians by bringing food to them inside the German lines. But it was, nevertheless, the way in which that war was being fought. When the British Foreign Office announced its alterations in what had been supposed would be the standard contraband list, it said: "So large a proportion of the inhabitants of the enemy country are taking part, directly or indirectly, in the war that no real distinction can now be drawn between the armed forces and the civilian population." (2 Garner, 287).

(To be concluded next week.)

MARINES SEE BIG YEAR AHEAD

Football at the Marine Corps training camp at Philadelphia has received a decided impetus during the past week, according to reports reaching Headquarters from Coach Tom Keady.

Morning practice, starting about 9 o'clock and ending at 10:30, is devoted to punting, passing and position practice of each individual in his own position, while the afternoon is devoted to punting and passing drills by the backfield candidates, tackling and ends and linemen going down under punts.

The squad has been divided into three teams who indulge in an hour's signal drill after the individual work is done and a run around the spacious, sodded parade ground which winds up the day's work.

Col. L. M. Gulick has placed all of the facilities of his post at the disposal of the squad and together with Col. H. M. Smith closely watch the daily drills, adding an interest which is reflected in the enthusiasm of the players.

Glick, Harrington and Ferrell of last year's team are showing up better than at any time during their football career in the Marine Corps. Sitton, last year's center and O. K. Pressly are fighting it out for the pivot position. Gann and Standley are the outstanding guards.

A newcomer to the squad, Corp. Stuckwisch, is developing fast under the personal tutelage of Coach Hough, as is Pvt. Popple.

The quarterback position looks as though it will develop a dead heat between Billingsley of last year's squad, and Lt. McCaffrey.

Bauer, Lloyd and Gotko appear to be the leading backfield aspirants. They have hit their stride and are not only doing fine work but their mere presence on the squad promotes that spirit which is necessary. Clyde Poppleman, one of the fastest men on the squad, is being especially tutored to cure his fumbling fault.

The Big Marine squad will leave Philadelphia on the 18th for the first game against John Carroll University at Cleveland, Ohio. It is to be a night game and will mark the resumption of athletic relations between these two teams which was terminated in 1927.

The Marines are looking forward to a banner year.

SPORT BRIEFS

The Army Medicos of Walter Reed Hospital swamped the Mount Rainier, Md., nine last Saturday, 13-2, scoring five runs in the first inning. Brown, the Medicos' second baseman, led the assault with a triple, double and two singles. Lewis held the Maryland team to eight hits.

Although outthit, the Army War College nine defeated the Nolan Motor Co. of Washington, D. C., Sept. 6, in a close game which ended 3 to 2, and the following day concluded their season with a 4-3 victory over the Southern Athletic Club. Beavers, War College pitcher, rang up the ninth successive win for the College, holding the Southerns to four hits.

The Maxwell Field Fliers, during the past several weeks, have about broken even in their baseball competition. A trip was made to Ft. Benning recently, and the 83rd FA nine was smothered to the tune of 18-6. The next day, however, the 15th Tank Battalion outfit of Ft. Benning turned the tables, beating the Fliers 6-5.

In an exciting night game with the Acme Roofers, the Fliers took the long end of a 7-6 score, but the Roofers came back the following Saturday with a 10 to 6 victory at Maxwell Field. A ten-inning game against the Coco Colas was won by the Fliers, each side alternately holding the lead.

Revenge was obtained by the 83rd FA when they journeyed over from Ft. Benning Labor Day. The Artillerymen scored 3 runs in the first inning and were never headed, winning 4-3.

TANKS WIN IN TANK

On Labor Day the swimming team from the 2nd Bn., 1st Tank Regt., fought its way to a close victory over picked teams from the 29th Inf., 83rd FA, and special units of the Infantry School, to win their third consecutive garrison swimming championship.

The Tankers were only able to retain their title after one of the closest contested water meets ever held at Ft. Benning. Five garrison swimming records were shattered during the competition.

Tannehill, of the Tanks, beat the old mark for the 50-yard dash when he broke the tape in 28 seconds. He also set a new mark for the century free style when he crossed the mark in 1:42.5 seconds.

Prophet, of the 29th Inf., led the field in the 400-yard race and hung up a new record at 6:10 1/4 seconds. Leading a fast field, McCormick, of the 29th Inf., cracked the century back stroke record with 1:28 1/4 seconds.

Yarborough, Tanker first-year man, hung up a new mark in the century breast stroke. His time for the heat was 1:28 seconds.

The meet was witnessed by a large gallery of fans that lined both banks of the pool. Medals and trophies were presented the winners by Col. Duncan Major, commanding officer of the 29th Inf.

5TH CAV. WINS

Ft. D. A. Russell—Headquarters Troop of the Fifth Cavalry stationed at Ft. Clark, Tex., won the troop team championship of the First Cavalry Brigade here recently, defeating Troop B of the First Regiment, by the score of 15 to 2.

Eleven runs were scored in the eighth inning by the visitors, to put the game on ice. Every man of the Ft. Clark outfit got a hit during that frame.

Lt. Hoffman, athletic officer, will take the First Cavalry Regimental Team to Ft. Clark next week and he expresses confidence that they will avenge the defeat of Troop B.

MRS. JOHNSON WINS TITLE

Lexington, Ky.—Mrs. Thomas J. Johnson won the women's golf championship of central Kentucky Sept. 5 over the Ashland Country Club course, defeating Mrs. L. C. Redmon, former Lexington Country Club women's champion, 6 and 5.

Mrs. Johnson, who is the wife of Maj. Thomas J. Johnson, and the daughter of Col. W. P. Coleman, Inf., combined long drives and accurate putting to take the first match play tournament ever staged by the central Kentucky Women's Golf Association.

ARMY TO START SCRIMMAGE

West Point, N. Y.—Maj. Ralph I. Sasse has divided the 88 candidates for positions on the Army Varsity football team into an A squad and a B squad or scrubs. Thirty-eight players, the maximum number authorized by Military Academy regulations are on the A squad, and Sasse plans to divide the A squad into teams with the best players on the first team.

Practice this week was principally group work, each player receiving individual instruction in fundamentals. No scrimmage sessions have been held as Maj. Sasse is planning to start strenuous work next week. This will give the squad two weeks' work before the opening game of the season to be played here on Sept. 27 against Boston University.

Harry Wilson, former all-American back who graduated in 1928, in addition to assisting Blaik in developing the new backfield Army needs, is conducting the calisthenics and conditioning exercises which open each practice session. Wilson is a pursuit pilot in the Air Corps.

Development of punters, drop kickers and place kickers is one of the hard tasks confronting Sasse. Golden is the only punter on the squad who had any varsity experience last year. He, together with Elliott, Sebastian, Fields, Remus, Frentzel, Letzelder, Broshus, MacWilliams, and Herb, all sophomores, are receiving considerable attention from Lt. Reeder.

NAVY GETS UNDER WAY

Annapolis, Md.—Navy got under way Sept. 8 on the 1930 football season when the eighty two candidates for the Navy team appeared on Farragut Field in the afternoon for the initial practice.

After a summer spent on the Practice Cruise and a short leave, the squad returned looking fit and anxious to begin the hard work necessary to prepare themselves for the vigorous schedule Navy is to play. Many new faces were on the field which indicates that the loss by graduation has been great.

The coaches realize the task that is before them, and the keen interest they have taken indicates that the next three weeks will be full of action. The Navy must accomplish a great deal in her short training season, and every effort is being put forth to have the squad ready for the opening game with William and Mary on Oct. 4, and the game with Notre Dame the following Saturday.

The usual show of optimism is missing from Annapolis this fall. It has been replaced by a very determined attitude and spirit, which will have to be picked up by every member of the squad. A Navy man with his back to the wall is a very dangerous man.

This year's schedule is quite a heavy and very interesting one.

Oct. 4—William and Mary College at Annapolis.

Oct. 11—Notre Dame University at Notre Dame, Ind.

Oct. 18—Duke University at Annapolis.

Oct. 25—Princeton University at Princeton, N. J.

Nov. 1—West Virginia Wesleyan College at Annapolis.

Nov. 8—Ohio State University at Baltimore, Md.

Nov. 15—Southern Methodist University at Baltimore, Md.

Nov. 22—University of Maryland at Annapolis.

Nov. 29—George Washington University at Annapolis.

Dec. 6—University of Pennsylvania at Philadelphia, Pa.

The regiment of midshipmen will attend all the games except the one at Notre Dame, when Navy will assist in dedicating the new stadium.

The plebes, likewise, have a very excellent schedule, all of which games will be at the Naval Academy.

Oct. 4—Kiskiminetas School.

Oct. 18—Georgia Military Academy.

Nov. 1—Western Maryland College Freshmen.

Nov. 15—Mercersburg Academy.

Nov. 22—West Virginia University Freshmen.

Nov. 27—Hun School.

FT. RUSSELL BOXING

Ft. D. A. Russell, Sept. 10—Judging from the success of the first one, the second boxing show of the series inaugurated here recently should pack them in Saturday night.

In the first bout on the previous card, Bearcat Moss, of Headquarters Troop, was awarded the decision over One Round Vozzo, of Troop B. These little fellows put up a fast and furious bout and the fight was even up until the fourth round when Moss's stamina showed to a better advantage.

In the second bout Gunner Higgenbotham, of the Machine Gun Troop had an easy victory over Kid Turner of Troop E. Higgenbotham was awarded a technical knockout in the second round. In the third bout, Joe Heck of Troop F, knocked out Sheik Bush of the Medical Detachment in the third round. Heck knocked Bush to the floor three times, the bell saving Bush twice.

The fourth bout was between Kayo Kilizwiski of Troop F, and Kid Cabral of Troop B. They put on four fast rounds of good boxing. Cabral was awarded the decision, his ring experience showing to a greater advantage. In the semi-final bout Slugger Hill, of Troop F, middleweight champion of the First Cavalry Division, knocked out Battling Joe Sedlack of Troop A. This was the best fight of the evening; as the bell rang in the first round they started mixing it up and continued to do so until the fourth round, when Hill swung a left hook to the pit of Sedlack's stomach, knocking him out for the count of ten.

In the final bout, Babe Hummel of Troop A, knocked out Mickey Blake of the Medical Detachment, in the second round. Hummel far outclassed Blake. Blake seemed afraid of Hummel and practically every time Hummel hit him he fell to the floor, Blake hitting Hummel but twice in the two rounds.

Bert Titus of Marfa, challenged Hummel for a bout, which challenge was accepted by Hummel, and the bout will be put on Saturday night.

Quantico Notes

Quantico, Va.—The Post Band and a battalion of Marines, under the command of Maj. Roy S. Geiger, USMC, participated in a parade held by the Veterans of Foreign Wars, at Baltimore, Md., Sept. 2.

Previous to the parade, Mayor Broening of Baltimore, gave a luncheon to President Hoover at the Maryland Club, and among those present were: Gov. Ritchie, of Maryland; Maj. Gen. Smedley D. Butler, USMC; Brig. Gen. R. C. Berkeley, USMC; Brig. Gen. J. B. Gowen, USA, and Rear Adm. T. C. Billard, USCG.

Maj. Gen. B. H. Fuller, USMC, in one of the first of his many duties as Commandant of the Marine Corps, launched the Marine Corps Schools on its regular cruise.

The usual guard of honor and the post band of over a hundred pieces turned out and rendered appropriate honors for this occasion. A 13-gun salute was fired as the General arrived at the post.

A luncheon at the Hostess House was given by the Staff and Officers attending the Marine Corps Schools after the official opening.

The General, in his speech, outlined his early military career and told how in those days there was little or no need for education of junior officers, as all they did was officer-of-the-day duty. After the World War it was found necessary to provide a technical education for all officers.

Starting 1931, 175 hours of Spanish will be given yearly in both the basic and company officers' courses, and starting Jan. 1, 1936, Spanish will be one of the required subjects for promotion from second to first lieutenant.

SATURDAY, SEPT. 13, 1930

"The pay bill should constitute a separate piece of legislation to be enacted immediately to relieve the desperate financial condition of the majority of officers and men, and thus build up the morale of the services." LOUISIANA DEPARTMENT AMERICAN LEGION.

THERE IS ONE ASPECT of the pay and promotion problems which will appeal to the Services. That is the seriousness with which the Interdepartmental Board is considering the numerous solutions which have been proposed. Obviously, the scale originally recommended by the Board will stand. It is fair and equitable, as far as fairness and equity can be applied, will help the personnel more nearly to meet their pressing needs, and is in greater accord with the high cost of living. Whether the promotion plan to be proposed is accepted or not, the pay increase should, in common decency, be granted.

WE FEEL IT OUR DUTY to reiterate that those opposed to the upward revision of the pay scale will welcome a controversy over promotion. A letter from one of our friends in the House of Representatives contains this opinion: "The mixing of the promotion with the pay question was unfortunate, and undoubtedly deliberate; the Services, in order to obtain pay relief, should sedulously avoid a promotion row." We are certain this is the view of the members of the Interdepartmental Board, and a view which should be accepted generally. If necessary, promotion reform can be deferred, or any law enacted concerning it can be modified. But pay increase is vital, and the sentiment of the American people at this time is united in its support. There has never been a more favorable public attitude on this matter.

IT IS AN INTERESTING FACT that when a man is a candidate for the Presidency he announces in no uncertain terms that he is strongly in favor of national defense. Mr. Hoover so declared, and, in this connection, he emphasized support of the principle in his letter of acceptance of the Republican nomination. Now we have Governor Roosevelt, of New York, telling the American Legion Convention at Saratoga last week, that he is an earnest advocate of adequate military and naval preparedness. His service as Assistant Secretary of the Navy is evidence of his conviction. The Socialist candidate for Governor of the Empire State argues that Mr. Roosevelt's views "makes President Hoover look like a staunch pacifist by comparison." If Congress should fail to appropriate for the ships necessary to assure the so-called parity established by the London Disarmament Treaty, we may expect Mr. Roosevelt, if nominated by the National Democratic Convention, to assail the Republican policy with respect to the strength of the fleet.

ONCE AGAIN, THE NAVAL SERVICE, like an Angel of Mercy, is engaged in the relief of human suffering. Dispatches from Santo Domingo, swept by a devastating hurricane, tell of the unremitting efforts of the Navy and Marine Corps to help the stricken, feed the hungry and house those without shelter. All kinds of supplies have been shipped to the unfortunate island. Doctors have been laboring without regard to hours. Deplorable as visitations of this kind are, it is a matter of satisfaction that wherever they occur, there the Army, the Navy, and Marine Corps are on hand to alleviate suffering and maintain order. That they do their sad work well is accepted as a matter of course. We refer to this West Indian activity merely to call attention to the fact that there are services other than war which the Armed Forces perform and which prove of inestimable value to humanity.

REPRESENTATIVES OF EUROPEAN STATES, meeting at Geneva last week, adopted a resolution, referring to the Briand plan for a European Federal Union, which declares for "close collaboration of European Governments in all international activities of capital importance for the maintenance of peace throughout the world." These activities are to be carried out in complete agreement with the League of Nations. A federal union of Europe would be an interesting experiment which should carefully engage the attention of the American authorities. What former President Coolidge thinks of the project operating through the League was indicated by an intimation he made the other day that the League is not so much concerned about peace as it is in preparing for war. It seems to us that such obvious signs from abroad demand that there should be no diminution in our efforts to be properly prepared.

GEN. JAMES G. HARBORD is looming large in the politics of New York City and consequently of the Nation. Speaking for the Republicans of New York, he delivered a radio address which excoriated the Democratic administration, declared that the trail of corruption and crime runs like scarlet thread through ten years of Democratic misrule, and charged the theft of millions of dollars and the alliance of Democratic politicians with criminals and racketeers. It was a plain, straight-from-the-shoulder talk, the kind needed to wake up a community. There never was any question of Gen. Harbord's physical courage; he displayed the possession of that trait during his Army career. Now, as we expected, he is displaying political courage, and is proving the kind of leader which makes not only for party strength but above all for civic purity.

THE PRIMARIES THIS WEEK have brought about the removal of Senator Blease, of South Carolina, from the Senate Military Committee, and Congressman John F. Miller, of Washington, from the House Naval Committee. We would not be surprised should the November elections make other changes in the Service committees. The Democrats are confident they will gain control of the House, and make some inroads on the Republican majority in the Senate. The complexion of the next Congress is important, since during its life problems of concern to the Army, the Navy, and Marine Corps, will be considered and determined.

Bread and Water

On board one of our battleships there was a young rubber sock who during his first few days on shipboard was made the victim of so many Navy jokes that he doubted all sailors and their motives. One night while he was on guard duty the figure of one of the ship's officers loomed from around the turret.

"Halt. Who goes there?" challenged the recruit.

"Lt. Moses," replied the officer.

"Well, advance, Moses, and give the Ten Commandments," replied the rookie, scenting another practical joker.—Contributed.

Should Have Stayed At Home

A young second lieutenant had just returned to the United States from a post graduate course at Oxford, where he took pains to acquire a trick English accent. He was listening to a talk of the Prince of Wales, but the Prince's accent was nothing like his. "I wonder," mused the lieutenant to his friend, "if the Prince really meets the best people."—Contributed.

Revenge

Chief (to dentist who had just extracted his tooth)—May I have that tooth?

Dentist—What do you want it for?
Chief—I want to put some sugar on it and watch it ache.

—Newport Recruit.

Going Modern

Chaplain—"Sonny, do you know where young men go who always cater to their thirst?"

Apprentice Seaman—"Yes sir! They go down to Mikes. Do you want the address and password?"

Not So Easy

Sweetie—"Dad was certainly relieved to hear you are in the Navy."

Sailor—"Oh, is he?"

Sweetie—"Yes, very! The last boy friend of mine he tried to throw out was a marine."

With Paint

2nd Lt. (visiting a friend)—"When will your wife make her appearance?"

1st Lt.—"She is in her room making it now."

Can't Sleep There

Soldier (home on furlough)—"Say, pop, can you get me a good job when I'm discharged?"

Fond father—"Yes, I'll give you a job, but you will have to start at the bottom and wake up."

The Fleet's In

Sweetheart—I cannot marry you, but I'll give you a place in my heart.

Sailor—No, thanks; I don't care to be crowded out by a couple of battleships.

His Presence Needed

Senior Division Officer—You have just had a month's leave, why do you wish to be relieved of your watch tomorrow?

Ensign—You see, sir, I met a girl while on leave and we had planned to get married tomorrow, and I would like very much to be there.

IN THE JOURNAL 60 YEARS AGO

Continued defeat of the French army by the Prussians can be laid to the corruption which has been prevalent in the army during the tenure of Napoleon the Third, correspondents report. Fraud has taken place on all sides; pay is drawn for regiments at their maximum strength; forage, subsistence, munitions have been paid for, but not bought; and great numbers of reserve troops can not be equipped with arms and uniforms, although the money for them has been expended.

The military post recently established near Provo City, Utah, has been named Ft. Rawlins, in honor of the late Gen. John A. Rawlins.

Comdr. Carter, commanding the US Steamer Savannah, has reported to the Navy Department from Ft. Monroe, 30 days out of Madeira.

Start of the regular Winter course of theoretical instruction at the Artillery School, Ft. Monroe, Va., will be on the first of October, it is announced.

Thirty-two monitors, laid up at League Island, Pa., Mound City, Ill., Washington, D. C., and New Orleans, are to be sold by the Navy Department. A board has been appointed to fix the value of each one.

Disaster Relief

ton took action. Mr. Charles B. Curtis, the American Minister to Santo Domingo City, was designated as their representative, and Mr. Ernest J. Swift, of the Red Cross, was despatched by airplane for relief work there. In conference with representatives of the Army and of the Navy, action was taken to use the relief measures which both services had ready and waiting.

Acting for the Red Cross, the Navy placed an emergency order for a large quantity of serums which were delivered within a few hours at the Navy Yard, Philadelphia, whence they were promptly despatched in three large Ford tri-motor transport planes under command of Maj. Geiger of the Marine Corps and Lts. Storrs and Harper of the Navy. These planes took with them not only this serum, but also another lot of serums which the Dominican Government had ordered by cable and which could not otherwise have been delivered in time to be of use in this emergency; and such space in these planes as was not thus used was filled with supplies of bandages, anesthetics, etc., from the Naval Hospital at Norfolk.

From the time that news of this disaster was received, the Destroyer Gilmer, in command of Comdr. Marshall Collins, USN, was held in readiness. As soon as decision could be reached with regard to what supplies were needed, the vessel was despatched at top speed with a further consignment of several tons of medical supplies, and with Maj. Thomas E. Watson, MC, who had been requested by President Trujillo for duty as Food Administrator.

The USS Grebe, station ship at St. Thomas, was sent to Santo Domingo where she has been of material service.

The store ship Bridge has been held in readiness at Hampton Roads, and all of the fighting vessels of the Scouting Fleet on the Atlantic Coast have also been made available for further relief measures, but it has been evident so far that their services were not needed. The Navy has again met every demand that has been made upon it.

QMC Eligible List

ELIGIBLE lists for the three higher grades of the Quartermaster Corps, compiled as the result of competitive examinations held beginning April 15, 1930, were completed and made public this week from the office of Maj. Gen. John L. DeWitt, the Quartermaster General.

The next examinations to establish eligibility to compete in the professional examinations for the three higher grades, Quartermaster Corps, will be held beginning Nov. 4, 1930. Applications should be submitted to Corps Area Commanders at once.

Professional examinations for these grades will be held beginning April 6, 1931. Applications should be submitted through channels to reach the office of the Quartermaster General not later than Feb. 1, 1931. Complete 10 P-12C Planes

Seattle—Ten high-speed P-12C pursuit planes have been delivered to the Army Air Corps by the Boeing Airplane Company, and the work on the production of the remainder of the Boeing contract for 131 pursuit aircraft is progressing at the average rate of one plane per working day.

The passenger-cargo combination model of the Monomail, known as the Boeing Model 221, left Seattle early this week for Cheyenne, Wyo., on the transcontinental mail-passenger airway, en route to Dayton where the plane, a low-wing all-metal monoplane, will be demonstrated to officials of the Army Air Corps.

Production of parts is now under way at the Boeing plant on a contract for 46 Navy F4B-2 fighters, deliveries on which will start the first of next year.

Win Medals For Bravery

Two Army Air Corps enlisted men, Staff Sgt. James H. Arthur, and Pvt. Floyd E. Bailey, have been awarded soldiers' medals for exceptional bravery.

Sgt. Arthur was praised for remaining in an Army airplane with the pilot near Fresno, Calif., after he had cleared the plane of six other enlisted men, who took to their parachutes. The plane's right propeller had broken, one blade damaging the right wing. Arthur remained in the plane even when a crash seemed inevitable.

Pvt. Lloyd E. Bailey was lauded for extinguishing a fire at Biggs Field, Ft. Bliss, Texas, which broke out on the floor near a 750-gallon tank truck filled with gasoline. With disregard to his own personal safety, Bailey extinguished the fire, thereby preventing considerable damage to the truck, building and equipment, had an explosion occurred.

Army Amateur Radio

By Maj. L. J. DUNN, Sig. Res.

ARMY Amateur Net Control Station W3CXL takes its place among the Army's high frequency transmitters at the new War Department station WAR at Ft. Myer, Va. Controlled from the War Department Message Center in the Munitions Building, W3CXL is in nightly contact with all parts of the world.

The Army Amateur Radio System is an affiliation of the amateur transmitting radio operators of the United States with the Signal Corps, U. S. Army, for the purpose of training and organization so that in times of emergency where normal communications fail, these men may be the agency whereby relief may be brought to the stricken areas.

This was most strikingly demonstrated during the recent Florida hurricane and the New England and the Mississippi Floods. In these instances the only communications for some days was via the Amateur Radio System. The system is even now being kept open to handle traffic arising from the hurricane in Santo Domingo that is rapidly sweeping toward Florida.

Station W2CXL has for the past few years been located at Ft. Monmouth, N. J., where, as Army Amateur Net Control Station, it conducted the operations of the amateur system and came to be recognized as one of the leading amateur stations of the American Radio Relay League.

In the Third International Relay Competition held by the American Radio Relay League, Station W2CXL, operated by Capt. Norman Lee Baldwin, Army amateur liaison agent, won second place out of all the stations of North America, rolling up a score of 2945 points by working 83 stations in five different continents.

The Army Amateur Net Control consists of two stations and three call letters. Stations W3CXL and WLM are the same transmitter on two different frequencies; WLM being used for the 6990 kc., and the Army Amateur band and W3CXL being used for the 7000-7300 kc., Amateur band. The frequency of the crystal at present is 7136 kc.

Station W3CXM is the station of Capt. N. L. Baldwin, located at his home at Alexandria, Va., and acts as Army Net Control Station on the 3500-4000 kc. band.

The crystal frequencies used at present are 3990, 3622 and 3950 kilocycles. The 3950 kc. frequency is used for normal operation.

Operation according to a master traffic schedule is held with all Army Amateur stations each Monday night. The Army Amateur Net Control Station has two 20-minute schedules with Corps Area Net Control Stations of the 1st, 2d, 3d, 4th, 5th and 6th Corps Areas; one-half hour schedule with the 7th and 8th Corps Areas and one 1-hour schedule with the 9th Corps Area.

There are 850 active Army Amateur Stations now in the system.

The Army Amateur Radio System is glad to forward free of charge messages to any part of the world as long as these messages are not of a business nature. Messages may be filed with the radio amateur in your vicinity. He will be ready to take messages for you and see that they are promptly transmitted.

Members of the Army who desire at times to send greetings to friends at far distant points should take advantage of the Army Amateur System. Your post signal officer will give you the necessary information.

New Age Limits For ORC

THE AGE LIMIT for initial appointments in the lowest grades of the Officers' Reserve Corps in time of peace will, after Oct. 15, be 30 and 35 years for the different arms and services. The general age limit remains at 21 to 60 years. The new regulation, however, does not effect those who served as officers of the Army between April 6, 1917, and June 30, 1919.

This change was propounded in War Department Circular No. 41, which is now being distributed. It should be inserted as subparagraph "d" in paragraph "4" of Section 1, AR140-5.

In time of peace initial appointments in the lowest grades of the Officers' Reserve Corps will be restricted to applicants who, on date of appointment, do not exceed the following ages:

Thirty years.—For the Infantry, Cavalry, Field Artillery, Coast Artillery Corps, Air Corps, Corps of Engineers and Signal Corps.

Thirty-five years.—For the Adjutant General's Department, Judge Advocate General's Department, Quartermaster Corps, Finance Department, Medical Department (including Dental, Medical Administrative, Sanitary, and Veterinary Corps), Ordnance Department, Chemical Warfare Service, Chaplains, Military Intelligence Reserve, and Specialist Reserve.

This change will be effective Oct. 15, 1930, for all applications received at corps area headquarters on or after that date. In applying these age limitations, persons who have attained their 30th or 35th birthdays, respectively, not exempted by reason of service as indicated above, will be regarded as ineligible for appointment.

Until this change becomes effective, the age limitations for appointment in the Medical Department Reserve and in the Quartermaster Corps Reserve will remain in effect as now published.

4th Corps Area NG Decamp

FT. McPHERSON, Ga.—With the conclusion of the National Guard Camp at Ft. McClellan, Ala., praise of the camp seems to be emanating from all sides. Many declare it to have been the best camp in the history of Ft. McClellan. With approximately 3,000 guardsmen, it represented the largest such assembly at one time in any National Guard camp in the 4th Corps Area during the past Summer.

While the troops, mostly of the 31st Division, came primarily from Alabama, the States of Georgia, Florida, Louisiana and Mississippi were also represented. Infantry, Tanks, Artillery, Engineers, Air Corps and the various services were in evidence for this combined training.

Senior officers, Regular Army and National Guard, as well as prominent civilians seem unanimous in their praise of this most successful encampment. These included Governor Bibb Graves of Alabama, who reviewed the troops on their last day of camp.

Five National Guard generals gave their time to the success of this camp, as well as other high officers of the Guard and Regular Army. They were: Maj. Gen. Albert H. Blanding of Tampa, commanding the 31st Division; Brig. Gen. J. C. Persons of Birmingham, commander of the camp and of the 62d Infantry Brigade; Brig. Gen. Allison Owen of New Orleans, commanding the 56th Field Artillery Brigade; Brig. Gen. F. E. Butler of Montgomery, the State Adjutant General; and Brig. Gen. Louis F. Guerre of New Orleans, commanding the 61st Infantry Brigade. Adj. Gen. John M. Hairston of Mississippi, was a two-day visitor of the camp, as was Brig. Gen. George H. Estes, the Regular Army commander at Ft. McPherson, Ga.

Naval Reserve Notes

THE number of officers who are subject to discharge from the service because of failure to undergo a physical examination during the past four years as required by law has narrowed down to 236.

On July 1 of this year, the number of officers in this category was much larger but many of the Fleet officers were taken from this class, when it was ruled that any physical exam taken within four years would count as the statutory one. Hitherto, exams taken when going on active duty did not count.

Letters have been sent to all of the 236 officers asking them to submit reasons for their failure to be examined, when the replies are received, the Bureau of Navigation will pass upon the reasons given. Much liberality will be shown in ruling upon discharges and the number of those to be stricken from the rolls is expected to shrink greatly.

For the information of Reserve officers, the Bureau of Navigation has announced the following rules governing the issue of courtesy cards for officers:

1. The Bureau does not require the return of a courtesy card issued to a Naval Reserve officer upon the death of such officer.

2. Officers transferred to the Honorary Retired List may be permitted to retain courtesy cards issued them prior to their retirement.

3. In case courtesy cards are lost or mutilated, they should not be duplicated or re-issued within the four-year period for which they were originally prepared.

4. When an officer is promoted to a higher rank, or when his class designation is changed, a new card may be issued upon return of the old one.

Lt. Comdr. W. J. Lee, C-V(S), USNR, on duty in the Bureau of Navigation, recently completed a two weeks' trip through First, Third, Fourth and Fifth Naval Districts. He visited Naval Reserve personnel, and inspected Reserve radio stations in Maine, Massachusetts, Connecticut, Pennsylvania and Maryland.

It was apparent during this trip that the Communication Reserve is maintaining its interest and enthusiasm and making excellent progress in connection with the establishment of new quarters, and the installation of radio equipment. Considerable radio material carried on the APA list has been distributed to Communication Reserve stations without cost to the Naval Reserve. Much of this equipment, while not useful in handling high frequency schedules, can be used to great advantage for the instruction of personnel.

Specifications have been completed for the new Naval Reserve 75 and 150-watt transmitting sets. The Bureau of Supplies and Accounts will shortly advertise for bids and it is hoped that the first sets may be procured within two to three months. Seventy-five watt sets will be assigned to the First, Third, Fourth, Fifth and Sixth Naval Districts, while 150 watt sets will be assigned as follows: Eighth, Eleventh, Twelfth, Thirteenth and Fifteenth Naval Districts.

not promoted, prior to their reaching the statutory age of 64.

The Public Health Service has a problem peculiarly its own in the large number of civilian doctors in that service. How to adjust this situation to that in the other branches has to be worked out.

In the Coast Guard the difficulties center over the recent large increase in officer personnel due to taking over prohibition enforcement, the many temporary, rapid promotions and the increasing difficulty of getting junior officers of the type up to the high standard set by the service.

The Board set its next meeting for Sept. 19 at which time it is hoped to have all of the promotion features ready so that a start can be made on the general recommendations.

Comends Ventura Captain

SECRETARY OF THE NAVY
ADAMS has commended Lt. Comdr. William R. Meyer, USNR, master of the Matson liner Ventura.

"The Department notes with pleasure the highly efficient and seamanlike manner in which this rescue was accomplished and takes great pleasure in commending you for your prompt decision in the premises, your efficient carrying out of your chosen mission and the successful issue of this humane undertaking, which is in keeping with the highest traditions of the Navy and of the American Merchant Marine," the Secretary stated in his letter to Comdr. Meyer.

Gen. Summerall Visits

accompanied by Brig. Gen. Howland, inspected the recruiting sub-station in Cheyenne. After this the Chief of Staff, accompanied by the Post Commander, called at the State Capitol to pay his respects to the Governor of the State of Wyoming His Excellency Frank C. Emerson. He then motored to the Post to review the troops of the regular garrison.

It is doubtful whether any previous review ever drew such a crowd of citizens from Cheyenne and nearby communities as did this one. Gen. Summerall said: "The troops are splendid, the equipment is in fine condition, the marching cannot be excelled—it is difficult to conceive of a better executed review."

He then motored to Cheyenne to inspect the Junior ROTC unit at the high school. He was met by the principal, Mr. Jesse Goins; Maj. H. C. Dagley, P. M. S. and T., and Mr. Rossman, president of the Board of Education. The members of the ROTC unit were assembled in the auditorium, and Gen. Summerall spoke in an inspiring way of the code of ethics in life as applicable to civil life and military life. He stressed Character, Honor, Loyalty and Truth.

The General then motored to the Plains Hotel to a luncheon given there in his honor by the Chamber of Commerce, the American Legion, the officers of the National Guard and the Organized Reserve Corps in Cheyenne. Every seat in that dining room was filled. Mr. Craig Lewis, president of the American Legion, presided, and Comdr. George W. Hewlett (formerly of the Navy), chairman of the Committee on Military and Naval Affairs of the Cheyenne Chamber of Commerce, introduced Gen. Summerall. The Chief of Staff gracefully acknowledged the courtesies. He then spoke on the strategical location of Ft. Francis E. Warren and the friendly relations that have existed between the Post and the citizens of Cheyenne. He commented on the wisdom of the late Senator Warren in locating a Post where Ft. Warren now is.

He then motored to Ft. Warren, where the entire command was assembled in his honor, and he was received with appropriate honors due to his rank. After an invocation by the chaplain, Capt. C. O. Parry, the massed bands played "The Stars and Stripes Forever."

Brig. Gen. Howland introduced the Chief of Staff to the assembled troops—telling them that Gen. Summerall, the Chief of Staff, is distinguished for accomplishments in civil life and in the Army. It was he, Gen. Howland said, who, as Commander of the 1st Division, seized the initiative at Soissons out of the hands of the Germans. They never regained it during the remainder of the war.

Gen. Summerall then talked to the troops in a most inspiring manner. He told them of some of his experiences in the Army and of the opportunities for the soldier of today. His reference to the life of a soldier and the execution of its loyal duties brought tears to many eyes of the military and civilians present. In closing his address, he complimented the troops on their high efficiency and bid them a most touching farewell. After benediction by the chaplain, the massed bands played "The Star-Spangled Banner."

As Gen. Summerall left the speaker's stand he met the many assembled officers and men who at one time or another had served directly under him.

Financial Digest

FLOATING supply of stocks seems to have been quite completely absorbed up to existing levels and, with sentiment again active for the rise, it now appears a fair assumption that the market will shortly forge ahead to new high territory before meeting offerings in substantial amounts, states a recent stock letter of the E. A. Pierce and Co. "A long, unbroken uptrend, however, cannot be expected and recessions larger than those shown this week are possibilities from time to time," the letter continues.

"Advisability of awaiting recessions before entering the market has been proven on numerous occasions in the recent past and inasmuch as the market promises to remain somewhat of a trading affair, continuation of this policy would seem the best procedure."

"The impression still prevails that the short interest is large, evidenced to some extent by the abnormal number of stocks still loaning flat. In some degree we believe Saturday's market represents an active demonstration against short position."

"On the other hand, optimism regarding Fall outlook continues to be stimulated through favorable statements by authorities in various lines from time to time. No doubt apparently exists now that some betterment is under way."

"In anticipation of higher prices during the next week or so, we believe moderate commitments for this period can be made at current levels. However, the market is now in untested territory and some liquidation will have to be met from time to time in any further substantial rise. From the conservative standpoint, it would appear advisable to await moderate reactions as they appear, rather than follow active strength."

He shook hands with each one and bid them good-by.

He then inspected the Post, visiting the headquarters of the 20th Inf., the 1st Inf. and the 76th FA; the barracks and stables of the troops, the Quartermaster activities and the Post Hospital. He then inspected Post Headquarters and Headquarters 4th Brigade. He complimented Gen. Howland on the condition of the command. Returning to Gen. Howland's quarters, Gen. Summerall received Mr. Carl Gray, president of the Union Pacific Railroad, accompanied by high officials of that road, who called on the Chief of Staff to pay their respects.

In the evening he was the guest of honor at dinner given by Gen. Howland at quarters. The guests present were Mr. and Mrs. Brimmer, of Cheyenne; Col. and Mrs. Jones, Col. Neff, Col. Coffin, Lt. Col. and Mrs. Brewster, Lt. Col. and Mrs. O'Loughlin and Maj. and Mrs. Pigott. Capt. George Forster, Gen. Summerall's aide-de-camp, was entertained at dinner by Lt. and Mrs. Stanton at quarters. Gen. Howland's other aide, Lt. Farmer, and Mrs. Farmer were present.

Following the dinner, the officers and ladies of Ft. Warren assembled at the Officers' Club at 7:15 p. m. in honor of Gen. Summerall. Prior to the forming of the receiving line, the inspiring ceremony of bringing in the colors was held in the ballroom of the Officers' Club. Gen. Summerall, Brig. Gen. Howland and Capt. Forster, aide, were on the receiving line. Gen. Howland's aides, Lt. Stanton and Lt. Farmer, presented those who came to honor Gen. Summerall. All the officers and their wives at the Post and members of the other components of the Army nearby and citizens joined in this honoring of Gen. Summerall.

After the reception, Gen. Summerall and Gen. Howland, accompanied by their aides-de-camp, motored to the depot in Cheyenne.

At the station the officers and ladies of the Post and a number of citizens of Cheyenne assembled to bid good-by to Gen. Summerall. As the General's car drew up to the station appropriate honors were played by the massed bands from Ft. Warren. After saying good-by, the Chief of Staff boarded the train. As the train pulled out into the night the band played "Auld Lang Syne" and Gen. Summerall from the observation platform waved farewell to the assembled officers and ladies. His visit at Ft. Warren has greatly inspired the whole command and has made a most profoundly favorable impression on the whole community.
